

WE NOMINATE

Benjamin Franklin Bunn, possibly the Princeton Community's most amazing octogenarian and one of the few residents of New Jersey ever to head two different municipalities, who next week—at a time of year when most men his age are content to dwell on things past—will be starting a 3,000-mile, 18-city tour in the company of Princeton University's Triangle Club, the self-styled "Rodgers and Hammerstein of college shows." For Bunn, Graduate Treasurer of the Triangle Club for 48 years, the upcoming railroad swing through the East and Middle West will be his 44th and valedictory "Triangle Trip," a record that would be even more compelling if World Wars I and II hadn't forced the 66-year old musical comedy troupe to suspend operations while its manpower was engaged in infinitely more serious pursuits.

In ringing down the curtain on his behind-the-scenes career with the Triangle, an unusual organization brought into being by Booth Tarkington and strengthened over the years by such eminences as F. Scott Fitzgerald, Jose Ferrer, James Stewart and Joshua Logan, Bunn will also be observing the tenth anniversary of his "official retirement" from business and the completion of a half-century of service to Princeton Town and Gown. As one of his associates has noted, Bunn's conception of retirement is diametrically opposed to any accepted definitions for he persists in finding almost as many outlets for his energies and abilities as he did during the decades he was helping shape modern Princeton.

Formerly Mayor of both Princeton Borough and Princeton Township, and currently a member of the Township Planning Board, Bunn continues to maintain active affiliations with nearly a score of Princeton institutions and enterprises, ranging from the First Presbyterian Church, the University and Westminster Choir College to the University Cleaners and Laundry, the Princeton Savings and Loan Association and the Princeton Water Company. Princeton Hospital, the Y.M.C.A. and the United Community Fund are among the services that have reaped the benefits of his leadership and counsel. A year ago he headed the community-wide citizens' committee that assumed responsibility for presenting the Princeton Ceremonial Mace to the University at the Nassau Hall Bicentennial.

The four decades he devoted to the direction of the Princeton University Store, from which he retired in the fall of 1947, provide the most dramatic measure of Bunn's administrative capacities. As a completely self-supporting member of the Princeton Class of 1907, who had taught school in his native Pennsylvania before applying for admission to the University, he started "clerking" in a crab, one-room book store in 1903. The Store became a cooperative venture in 1905 and Bunn its manager in 1908. During his tenure, the U-Store, now building a new $500,000 plant on University Place, grew from a $60,000-a-year business into one handling annual sales in the neighborhood of one million dollars.

For personifying all of the qualities conjured up by the descriptive phrase, "self-made, sought-after, never self-seeking," for his faithful stewardship of the many trusts committed to him by the community of Princeton, for thoroughly enjoying whatever he undertakes in the public interest; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

A REPORT TO PRINCETON

What Generosity Means. Each year for the past decade, hundreds of residents of the Princeton area have contributed to the Town Topics Christmas Fund. They have been credited by the Family Service Agency, which supervises all expenditures, with making possible the complete rehabilitation of distressed individuals and of households burdened with misfortune.

The fund created each Christmas-time by their generosity lasts a full 12 months, and it is literally true that not a day passes when a number of their less fortunate neighbors are not realizing the strength that comes from a helping hand. In recent years, this has been particularly so when the fund has been applied to the needs of Princeton's ill-starred children.

A typical report from Family Service advises that "the last check you sent was used for a family with five children under eight—one in which the father had lost his job and there was no money for food." Another case materially aided was "a young mother with two children and a brand new baby who had come here to live with her mother because her husband was mentally and physically abusing her."

At a time when Princetonians join with millions of others to pause and give thanks for another year of a pleasant way of life, it is well worth knowing that some within this community desperately need help. That many of them are young, with a life-time stretching ahead of them, heightens the need for assistance because in most cases, it is not "too late."

Gifts made to the Fund have bought shoes when otherwise there would have been none; have meant supplementary food and milk allotment for undernourished youngsters; have provided two wonderful weeks at the Princeton Summer Camp that in many ways do more than can be accomplished by "part-time rehabilitation" throughout the rest of the year.

Last Christmas, a hard-working father with seven mouths to feed

Situation Normal - - - All Foned Up

Early last December, Mayor P. Mackay Sturges braved the cold to turn a spadeful of Princeton terrain and officially start construction of New Jersey Bell's dial telephone building here. On Sunday morning, some 30,000,000 seconds later, it took a well-coordinated corps of specialists just 72 seconds to put the community's dial system into operation.

Elmer W. Dietz, Princeton telephone manager who cut the vital cable to get the big show on the road, called the switchover "perfectly normal." A lot of people insisted on dialing WAInut 1, when they should have been dialing WAInut 4, but even most of these difficulties were things of the past by Tuesday. As a reminder, Mr. Dietz pointed out that most old Princeton numbers UNDER 6000 can now be reached by preceeding the number with WA 4. New numbers ranging from 6000 up require WA 1.

The Princeton manager said Bell will maintain an "intercept bureau" in the basement of its manual building at Charlton and Nassau Streets for several months to intercept and clear up "bugs" in the new system. After that time, the structure probably will go on the selling block, as downtown rumor-passers observed with no little glee as early as Monday morning.

was aided by the Fund just to the extent of providing enough pipe with which to make operable the bathroom in the house for which he had scraped and saved the down payment. When this made possible the first Christmas "together," away from a wretchedly overrowed "in-law" household, his unknown neighbors had brought real joy to a deserving family.

Every penny of the gifts received is spent on behalf of those registered with Family Service. All administration costs are met by Town Topics.

Next week, for the 11th year in a row, Town Topics will present its Christmas appeal. Those who respond can truly be certain that theirs are "gifts that last."

PERSONALITIES

Dr. Edward S. Corwin, 487 Stockton Road, whose tremendous knowledge of the U.S. Constitution came into sharp focus this week as he continued to urge Congress to clarify the position of an ailing President by enacting an "inability" statute. Calling Dr. Corwin an "expert" on the subject and referring to his book, "The President: Office and Powers," as an "indispensable" volume, The New York Times quoted the Princeton writer on Tuesday's editorial page: "The disabled Presidents were left to depend on their immediate families and personal entourage. This condition of affairs should not be permitted to continue. The original sense of the Constitution should be recovered, as it can be by appropriate action by Congress."

Street, oft-publicized advocate and stimulator of physical fitness in Princeton's grade schools who proved conclusively last weekend that he practices his athletic preachings. Following 18 holes of golf Friday, he spent a long evening officiating a longer-than-standard, pre-season basketball scrimmage between Princeton and St. Josephs of Philadelphia. Then, to round out the day, he took a midnight train to Worcester, Mass., where he served as umpire for the Holy Cross-Boston College football game Saturday afternoon.

ROUND-UP

AROUND TOWN: Princeton Country Day School's newest addition was dedicated Tuesday night as the "Henry B. Ross Wing," in honor of its headmaster whose resignation takes effect next June. . . . Princeton Hospital, often so crowded inside that its parking area outside is equally crowded, has asked for bids on a 200-car parking lot to be constructed in the garden acreage across from the hospital on the south side of Franklin Avenue. . . . no new word on "A Visit to a Small Planet," but McCarter's managing directors reportedly have lined up a new drama, "This Is Goggle," starring Kim Hunter and James Daly, for January presentation. . . . on the heels of another serious accident at the Washington-College intersection, Township, University and County representatives will convene here this Thursday afternoon for a joint parley to consider a traffic light for the danger zone. . . . despite the encouraging fact that neither Princeton municipality suffered a bad auto mishap over the Thanksgiving holidays, Township Chief James Campbell seconded Borough Chief John Smith's plea of last week by urging extreme driving caution to combat the difficult combination of shorter days, Christmas shopping pedestrians and bad weather. . . . speaking of Christmas shopping, Town Topics' third in a series of helpful what-to-buy and where-to-buy-it columns starts on page 7. . . . congratulations to Joe Weiler of Snowden Lane on the publication of "Firearms Investigation, Identification and Evidence" (The Stackpole Company, Harrisburg, Pa.; 535 pages; $10), a monumental words-and-pictures effort that required hours of labor and miles of travel by its three collaborators, including the aforementioned Princeton firearms expert.

SHORT SHOTS: For the first time in several years, the full membership of Borough Council and Township Committee will conduct a joint meeting at 8:15 p.m. December 12 in Township Hall, primarily to discuss sanitary landfill responsibilities but possibly to branch out into other "mutual" problems. . . . sanitary landfill ideas already have been weighed by members of the Joint Sewer Operating Committee who reported this week that 1958's budget for all sewer costs will be $101,000 (up from $99,900 in '57) and for incinerator operation will be $42,000 (up from $38,690 in '57). . . . it was pointed out that both facilities remained well within their original '57 budgets, the sewer saving several thousand dollars, the incinerator several hundred. . . . on the road front, Borough officials said blacktopping of Avalon Place is almost completed and the long-awaited "link" street finally will be opened for public use after approval of parking and traffic restrictions at next Tuesday's session of Borough Council. . . . residents of Greenholm have agreed to finance and erect a six-foot rustic fence between their homes and the new artery, with a low link fence likely for the last 25 feet to Bayard Lane. . . . in the Township, officials of the police, health and engineering departments have made a thorough study of housing conditions in the municipality and submitted reports to the mayor. . . . these reports will be reviewed at next Monday's meeting of Township Committee, with consideration afforded existing ordinances and recommendations from the reporting officials. . . . Santa Claus Schultz will begin his traditional answering service Sunday, December 15, over WALNUT 4-3375. . . . full details in next week's issue.

TOPICS Of the Town

STAGE IS SET

For Action on Eastern Front. Modern-style development of Princeton's amazingly fast-growing east side, which not so many years ago was a series of fields and horse-and-buggy dirt roads, grabbed the news spotlight this week as those responsible for soothing the community's growing pains sought proper remedies. Curiously, planning boards of both Township and Borough coped with problems involving the same general area and, as might be suspected, the problems are closely related.

On Monday night, before a packed house of some 150 highly interested citizens, the Township Planning Board devoted three hours to Princeton University's controversial bid for a large-scale housing project east of Harrison Street and just north of Carnegie Lake. Next evening, before a comparative handful of citizens, the Borough Planning Board considered the township's request for improvement of the Borough's share of Prospect Avenue Extension and decided to let other matters of east side concern.

Appearing in support of the University's revised proposed subdivision, Charles K. Agle, planning consultant, read a carefully prepared 10-page statement to the Township gathering, emphasizing at the outset that "it is not possible to review the pros and cons of an individual subdivision out of context with the general community." The veteran planner, with the aid of area maps, showed how the University would like to see the subdivision developed. In his argument, he included the Gray Farm property at the southeast corner of Harrison and the lake and the present "veterans project" north of the farm — adequate acreage for construction of 131 homes in three building phases over a 10 to 15-year period.

Basically, Mr. Agle disagreed with the board's earlier sentiment that a major circulation road should run through the University development and emerge at Harrison via Lake Drive. He said there is no need for a cross-town artery at this point, contending that the eastern portion of the community would be much better served by completion of "link" streets on Sycamore Road and Prospect Avenue Extension. He urged the board to keep "thru" traffic out of the University project.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE: Mayor Ralph S. Mason of Princeton Township and Mayor Russell Mount of West Windsor Township marked this area's cut-over to the dial system by taking part in the first official call dialed through new telephone exchanges serving Princeton (Walnut 1 and 4) and Plainsboro (Swinburne 8). Looking on are Elmer W. Dietz (right), New Jersey Bell Telephone Company manager for Princeton, and W. Howard Klank, Plainsboro manager.

Petitions From Opponents. Reaction to Mr. Agle's recommendations was mixed. Three petitions were offered to the board by neighborhood residents, one group more or less endorsing the Agle plan and two groups opposing it for a variety of reasons. A majority percentage of those in attendance seemed to feel that the

School Site Okayed

By a margin of 352 to 208, Township residents voted Tuesday evening to spend another $26,000 for final acquisition of a $50,000-plus school site on Riverside Drive, just south of Nassau Street, and, at the same time, authorized transfer of this latest amount from the Township Board of Education's surplus expense reserve to its capital outlay account. The meagre turnout of 560 eligible voters, or an average of only 340 per hour the four hours the polls were opened, represented 12.6% of the total Township electorate of 4,416.

Voters in six of the Township's nine districts — all existing ballots at Valley Road School — endorsed the dual resolution, four of these contingents by decisive counts. In district 4, the difference was only 52 to 47 and, in district 8, it was 16 to 10. Three districts voiced the "nays" — No. 1, by a substantial 19-4 margin, No. 6 by 29-15 and No. 7 by 24-14.

In urging residents of the municipality to endorse November's 72% rush to the polls with a "yes" vote, the board and its independent Citizens' Advisory Committee called acquisition of the Riverside property the "next logical step" in the long-range development of the Township's growing school system. All those connected with a survey that indicates the new site is the best possible location for a new school believe it will be needed for the opening of school in September, 1959. The voters, though hardly overwhelming numbers, concurred with them.

revised proposal does not solve the area's traffic problems any better than the board's original ideas.

Among citizens opposed to the University's thoughts for development of the subdivision, the most outspoken continued to harp on the theme that the University is interested in preserving quietude for its tracts without regard for the interests of surrounding subdivisions. Some argued that Lake Drive is an important artery for the dispersal of eastern traffic — and should be cut through to Harrison along with Sycamore.

Attorneys Henry M. Stratton and Alfred L. Tetz, the University's real estate manager, appeared with Mr. Azle, indicating the University's desire to get its plans approved and get on with the first phase of the badly needed houses. They seconded Mr. Azle's reasoning that the major "desire line" in the proposed area is a north-south direction, not east-west, thus calling for expansion of north-south arteries rather than Lake Drive.

At the start of the stormy session, which was punctuated by mixed emotions, board officials stressed that it could be regarded only as an explanatory meeting and not a public hearing. The big turnout was caused by postcards to residents announcing the gathering as a public hearing, but the

The Inside Story

When it rains, when it pours,
Little children stay indoors
All day.

Please, Mr. Sun,
Shoo them out, every one,
Right away!

—Weather-beaten Mother

No doubt, the harassed lady in question is thinking back last weekend, when the kids were forced to stay under wraps due to a steady drizzle and chill winds. Princetonians who ventured to the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia recall Saturday's miserable conditions all too well, for that's the day the Weather Man picked for clear skies after a rainy Friday (only it didn't rain Friday).

Undaunted, the Man is brave enough to try again this week. He believes the rain-filled clouds definitely will stay away from Princeton, which will come as good news to our poetess. Of course, temperatures are going to drop quite a bit, and snow may fall now and then before the weekend is over. Oh well, lady, the kids just love to romp in the snow — let 'em go outdoors, sunny or not!

University's failure to insert a legal newspaper advertisement announcing the hearing made it necessary for the board to postpone any official action until its January convence.

Borough Action Postponed. Prompted by a letter from Township Mayor Ralph S. Mason, who explained his municipality's desire for completion of Prospect Avenue Extension before construction of a new school in the Riverside section (see box, page 3), the Borough Planning Board concerned itself with the part it should play in the street's extension at this time. Members noted that the complete extension is already shown on all official maps, indicating board approval in the past, so actual construction can be okayed by Borough Council whenever it feels so inclined.

Perplexed by several questions raised by the Township's action, the board voted unanimously to postpone recommendation of construction of the "link" until the Riverside school is more imminent — in other words, before 1959 budget time rather than now, when the '58 budget is being worked out. Among the questions were financing, since much property along the proposed extension is still undeveloped, and traffic safety, since Prospect might develop into a "racetrack" unless Sycamore is developed on a concurrent basis. Also, board members said they would like to see the Township take positive action on the extension before asking the Borough to help relieve the Township's traffic pressures.

The Borough group brought up the proposition of Grand Union establishing a supermarket on Harrison Street North, but George R. Meyers, board chairman, assured listeners that the matter is "still in the talking stage" and predicted no concrete action for a long time, if ever. The board was asked for an opinion on such a market location several months ago; however, Borough Council has vetoed any idea of hiring a city planner to offer an opinion on expansion of the municipality's business zone — so the issue appears dormant as of now.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Playhouse Marking 20th. When the Princeton Playhouse parts its curtain next Monday for "Kiss Them For Me," a new Cary Grant comedy, 20 years will have passed since the casual, comfortable, Colonial-type movie house presented its first feature, "The Awful Trugh," at that time a new Cary Grant comedy. The theatre and the Hollywood star have withstood the years well, showing the effects of age only slightly, though both have improved their styles.

Back on Thursday, December 9, 1937, Princeton theatergoers were awed by the overall beauty of the Playhouse, inspired primarily by Dutch Colonial architecture. But they were particularly struck by the modern, non-Dutch ceiling, first of its kind in the world. Designed by Dr. Lester Cook of Princeton University's physics department, it represented an actual application of the isophonic curve theory of the perfect reflection of sound.

The Playhouse has not changed or added to its total of 1,224 plush red chairs since opening day, but there have been other innovations. On February 25, 1954, for the first local showing of "The Robe," the theatre enlarged and curved its screen to accommodate CinemaScope and the many other wide-screen processes that have followed. In March, 1956, the Playhouse became one of the last motion picture emporiums to succumb to the profit-making lure of an all-but-essential candy stand.

Some 3,500 servicemen were residents of the Princeton University campus during World War II, so, for their benefit, then-Governor Edison obtained permission for the Playhouse to break through a long-standing Princeton barrier and offer Sunday movies. "Yankee Doodle Dandy," originally scheduled as the initial Sunday offering on January 10, 1943, was postponed until January 17, 1943, out of deference to Edgar Palmer, who died on the 8th. Continuous Sunday performances were instituted on October 20, 1946, and, in November, 1947, Princetonians repealed the old cinema "blue law" by a 3 to 1 margin, thus making

Mistaken Identity

Princeton is the home of the eggheads—a research, educational and cultural stronghold among weaker intellectual outposts—or so recent magazine articles and loyal local propagandists would have the world believe. Visitors usually can be convinced of the validity of this bright picture, though it may be extremely difficult to persuade strangers who happen to arrive in Princeton the weekend of December 20-22.

With Princeton University students away on vacation and the younger school set just commencing its Christmas holidays here, Manager Richard Knight of Princeton's cinema houses is planning to take full advantage of his most likely audience. The Playhouse marquee, for better or for worse, will herald the presence of "Jailhouse Rock," starring irrepressible Elvis Presley, while the Garden will proudly publicize one of its rare double-features, "The Curse of Frankenstein" with "X, the Unknown."

Sunday performances were instituted on October 20, 1946, and, Sunday performances were eliminated and Sundays joined the three-a-day club.

The Playhouse's top-grossing film in 20 years of cinema ups and downs was "The Country Girl" (Kelly-Crosby), shown for a full week in February, 1955. Only three pictures—"From Here To Eternity" (Lancaster-Sinatra), "War and Peace" (Audrey Hepburn-Mel Ferrar) and "Oklahoma!" (Macrae-Jones)—have played two full weeks, the distance record for the Playhouse to date. "From Here To Eternity" and "War and Peace" were good grossers, along with "The Country Girl," and others among the Playhouse's "top 12" money-makers over a 20-year span were "The Razor's Edge" (Power-Baxter) and "It's A Wonderful Life" (Jimmy Stewart) in 1947, "The Road to Rio" (Crosby-Hope) and "State of the Union" (Bellamy) in 1948, "A Letter to Three Wives" (Douglas-Darnell) in 1949, "Adm's Rib" (Katherine Hepburn-Spencer Tracy) in 1950 and "The Court Jester" (Danny Kaye), "Picnic" (Holden-Russell) and "Friendly Persuasion" (Cooper-McGuire-Perkins) in 1956.

Needless to report, there have been many poor grossers in the past 20 years, perhaps paced by an infamous product called "The Big Knife" which ill-starred Shelley Winters and Jack Palance. Richard Knight, who succeeded Charles Winkelman as manager of the Playhouse in the spring of 1953, said the theatre's records indicate ahead-of-schedule removal of only one film, "Jet Pilot," for reasons of low calibre. The manager yanked Howard Hughes' frightful tribute to air power, six years late in being released, early this fall.

THE PLAYHOUSE

April Love (December 5-7) promises to do a sprightly pre-Christmas business in Princeton because the star is Pat Boone, one of the top "pop" singers of the day, and his records are selling as well here as elsewhere. His rendition of the title tune, already over the coveted millionth sale hump, is bound to help. So is the presence of Shirley Jones, the young gal with a fine voice who proves she can warble Sammy Fain ditties the same appealing way she handled her Rodgers & Hammerstein chores, and Arthur O'Connell, a good character actor despite the odds against him this time out. Add CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color—and how can the box office miss?

The box office may not miss, but the story certainly does. It is the worn-out tale of a city boy (Boone) who goes to the country to learn how to live on the righteous side of the tracks. He falls in love with Miss Jones and wins a "must" trotting race for O'Connell. But our hero is a probation violator, if you can believe it of such a clean-cut youth, and he almost—almost, that is—gets arrested just before the peaches-and-cream climax. Everything turns out swell, assuming the viewer doesn't care about plot. One positive point: the film's star is a more wholesome gent, probation violator or not, than Elvis. He deserves a

A SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE PRINCETON PLAYHOUSE

The Princeton Playhouse opened its doors to the public for the first time on December 9, 1937. We will celebrate its 20th anniversary on next Monday, Dec. 9th by having a HOLLYWOOD STUDIO SNEAK PREVIEW at 8:45 P. M., in addition to the regular 7 P. M. showing of the regular attraction "KISS THEM FOR ME."

A SNEAK PREVIEW is an unadvertised showing of a new feature picture, prior to its regular release to theatres throughout the country. This will be the first time that Princeton has been selected for a preview.

Remember the date — Monday, December 9th at 8:45 P. M. You may come at 7 P. M. and see the regular show and stay right on for the SNEAK PREVIEW for no additional admission charge.

better fate than "April Love," which is no boon to Boone.

Kiss Them For Me (December 8-11) is a fitting presentation for the Playhouse's 20th anniversary (see story above), for it brings back Cary Grant, headliner of the theatre's first picture, "The Awful Truth," in another rowdy comedy. The new film isn't as funny as the show that started the Playhouse's notable history and Cary is a bit old to be playing a dashing Navy pilot, but Cary is an improved comedian and, thanks to his great knack, the anniversary cake is well worth devouring. Be ne comic, romantic, bitter or sad, Grant is a convincing performer. And it is easy to see why he has bridged the span of 20 years so successfully while others of his vintage have taken the final plunge from stardom.

In "Kiss Them For Me," based on Frederick Wakeman's best-selling novel, "Shore Leave," the star is ably supported by Larry Blyden and Ray Wulston, his naval sidekicks, and Jayne Mansfield and Suzy Parker, a pair of attention-winning if not Oscar-winning femmes. This support is needed, for a story of World War II frivolity in San Francisco is rather dated in 1957, and, needless to report, Wakeman's navalesque suffers in the transition from printed page to public view. Jerry Wald's production in CinemaScope and Deluxe Color affords a modern touch, also needed, so that the Playhouse receives better-than-average treatment on its birthday.

THE GARDEN

The Spanish Gardener (December 2-7), skillfully played by Dirk Bogarde, one of England's top performers, befriends a young boy, tenderly played by Jon ("The Little Kidnappers") Whiteley, only to earn the hatred of the youth's selfish, bitter father, clumsily played by Michael Hordern. As the laboriously contrived climax is reached, Hordern orders Bogarde arrested, Bogarde escapes, the boy runs away and the truth finally is revealed with everybody happy as a consequence. Although this brand-new British import travels over familiar ground and is too often too obvious, it continuously holds audience attention, thanks mainly to Bogarde, Whiteley and the scenery (in Technicolor and VistaVision.)

Checkpoint (December 9-11), another of the Rank Organization's many British imports, exploits the publicity given to the last big sports car race in Italy, a fatal debacle. The film is built TRYING IT ON FOR SIZE: In typical Triangle fashion, three of the featured performers of this year's undergraduate production, "After a Fashion," wrestle with the problem of getting in shape and into costumes for the show's final dress rehearsals. Doing their best to aid not-so-wee damsel Kalman Ruttenstein of Buffalo are Remak Ramsey of Baltimore and Triangle President Fred Wardenburg of Wilmington, who is doing far from his best to aid the cameraman. Oh well, everything will be ironed out by the time the '57 revue opens next Thursday at McCarter Theatre. (Ed Hein Photo) around—and has for its climax—a high powered, cross-country auto race from Florence, up through the Italian Alps, to Locarno, Switzerland. Much of the racing footage is exciting fare and, though the plot rambles badly in its early stages, there are a couple of murders to satisfy the bloodthirsty. Anthony Steel, or Mr. Anita Eckberg, is fairly effective as a sports car driver, considering the limitations of the script, but the personality to watch is lovely Odile Versois, who plays a Florentine secretary with serpentine appeal.

TRIANGLE SHOW

Opening Next Week. Almost certain to play to capacity houses two of the four times it presents its 1957 show here, the Triangle Club of Princeton University this week moved into a final few days of dress rehearsals for "After a Fashion." Tickets for the Friday and Saturday evening performances, December 13 and 14, were becoming scarce as hen's teeth at the University store, where they are now on public sale, while plenty of seats were still available for the opening on Thursday evening, December 12, and the Saturday matinee.

For the third consecutive year, the Triangle Show—embarking on its 66th annual program and now the only touring college musical in the country—is being directed by Milton Lyon, New York television and musical comedy director, and given its choreography by Peter Hamilton, noted modern dancer. This team was responsible for the critical praise accorded the 1955 Triangle revue, "Spree de Corps," and last year's book show, "Take a Gander!"

Negotiations were completed this week for undergraduate members of the cast of "Fashion" to present excerpts from their student-written, student-produced revue on the Ed Sullivan Show, CBS television, this Sunday night (8 p.m., channel 2). Marlo Lewis, producer of the popular Sullivan program, watched a run-through of three song-and-dance numbers from the musical just before the Thanksgiving holidays. Calling Triangle "one of the best musical organizations of its kind in the country," Lewis selected two numbers for presentation on Sullivan's variety show. The second act's opening song, "The Skulk Step," a fast Charleston number executed by a chorus of 24 students costumed as Flapper Girls of the 1920s, definitely will be executed on the telecast, while a comic gypsy dance from a production number entitled "Opera Revisited"—Triangle's attempt to make grand opera palatable to today's tastes—probably will be exhibited.

Sunday's appearance will mark the sixth straight year the Triangle Club has earned a spot or two on the Ed Sullivan Show. This time around, the Princeton representatives will share top billing with Noel Coward, the distinguished British actor-writer-director—producer, and Jean Maderna, Metropolitan Opera star. Last year, Triangle presented Sullivan with a plaque and honorary in the club "in appreciation of his great service to the Triangle Club as well as many other college musical and dramatic groups." Sullivan is the third person to be so honored in the 6-year history of a unique collegiate organization that has started Jimmy Stewart, Josh Logan, Jose Ferrer, et al, on the road to theatrical fame.

Veteran Cast for Yule Show. No less than nine veterans of previous Princeton Community Players productions will head a large and experienced cast for "The Christmas Story," forthcoming seasonal staging. Peter and Joan Cook, now handling direction chores for Marguerite McAneny, who was forced to give up the director's post due to the pressures of an already heavy schedule, announced the final Martian Roulette. Well, the Russian missile men may have gotten there ahead of us but the muscle men in the toy industry weren't beaten by anybody, no sir. The toy universe is full of satellites, rocket-launchers, and solar gadgets of all kinds. One manufacturer, whose product was obviously off the planning board and into production last spring, hastily pasted a sticker over his cap-ion — "Little Spatnik", it reads.

Fastines, over the Delaware in Washington's Crossing, Pennsylvania, and Zinder's here on Nassau Street, have a satellite launch-er with four satellites. In experimental test flight Zinder's they described an erratic elliptical orbit around the store, narrowly missing several earthmen in transit.

Zinder's also has a missile launcher with soft rubber missiles that do a minimum of cranial damage. A Navy Pom-Pom gun, here and at Urken's and Fastines, has 360-degree rotation, double-barrel, recoil action and a good loud pom-pom noise — $12.95.
Zinder's satellite battle station

The Book Mart on Palmer

motor plane that can be guided by remote control. Start it up, watch while its four propellers spin, in turn, then see it zoom down the runway. Not built for flight, but fascinating to watch on the ground. Zinder's favorite plane is a heavy polyethylene cargo plane with jeeps; big and unbreakable.

Reverting to a gentler age, Zinholster set in top-grain saddle leather studded and lavishly trimmed with turquoise (plastic).

Costs $9.95, Tiger Auto on With-Princeton Stationers, next to the boy set, $5.99, that includes two leather holsters, a pair of spurs, cuffs, bandana clip, a 50-shot repeater rifle and 50-shot pistols.

mobile unit in rubber with 10 unbreakable soldiers and the usual transport equipment.)

removable weapons — very convenient.

Models and hobby equipment follow the general orbit of the science toys. Radio and Hobby, 10 Witherspoon, has a solar radio kit for $11.95 whose radio is powered by the sun. A $9.95 model of the 200-inch Palomar telescope trains its sights at the same store.

Flying and displaying models are at Radio and Hobby and also at Mall Camera, Princeton Shipping Center. Mall has an aluminum flying wing so well-made that it won't crumple if it crashes. It has an engine and you control its flight — $12.95. The Super-Cut 105, saucy, yellow and ready to fly, is at Mall Camera for $7.95.

The "Sea Witch Clipper" at Mall will give ten happy hours of model-building — more, if you want to fuss with extra details. Mall also has a model of the largest Christmas tree and an assortment of in-and-outboard motors for small model craft.

Models: Mall, Radio and Hobby, Tiger, Book Mart, Zinder's, including the authentic knight model, designed by Aaron of Radio and Hobby.

For children who like handi-crafts, there are absorbing Christmas toys. Pastimes has a Swedish loom made of wood, an exact replica of a real loom, not just a flat square that you make patch-holders on. This handsome little piece is $5.95, about 12 inches long and 10 inches high.

Nassau Paint has Wonder-wood, a pulverized wood which you mix with water, then model or mold. Excellent for train layouts, relief maps, ornamental boxes.

Mold a Candle

In the course of a shopping expedition last week we met a woman who was looking for wicks so that she could make a little candle. We couldn't think of anything she could use except kerosene lantern wicks, and obviously they wouldn't do.

Five minutes after we left this despairing shopper, we walked into the Nassau Paint Store, 126 Nassau, and almost stumbled over a full, complete set of candle-making supplies. It's not really a kit, because you buy the pieces separately, but it adds up to the same thing. There's a bag of white wax chips (70¢), a bundle of wicks, coloring powders, and even Christmas scents to make your candles smell like pine, bayberry and so forth. If you want something more than the usual wax cylinder, Nassau Paint has Christmas molds to take your melted wax. They are figurines about four inches high.

es, masks, puppets. Dry it in sun or oven and you have real wood. Comes in several different colors, 79 cents a bag.

The shop also stocks fine, soft leather in natural color to use for some advanced hand-work.

Young children would love to make stained glass. Buy a book of 100 colorful scenes. Lay the pattern over plain paper, film it with sell-off then color with crayons. Book is $1.

Mall Camera and Nassau Paint's art supply centers have also, watercolor, pastels, brushes and drawing pads. Nassau Paint gives you everything for creative Christmas decorations. Little bags of sequins, spangles, glitter and rhinestones, "snow", and deckle-edge cards with envelopes, 10 cents each, for making your own Christmas cards.

Viven in Mink. Dolls this year are ten inches high. Their little eighteen-inch sisters of last year are still around in stretch and have, as a matter of fact, more and better furniture than big sister (she has only a bed, so far as we know) but the writing is on the wall and by next Christmas the eighteen-inch may be in oblivion for all we know.

This ten-inch doll is not one of your cute chubby Gynies. She is a babe, with heels that high, a figure like Jayne Mansfield's and probably a mink stole. You will find her in every store — Stuff and Nonsense, Pastimes, Tiger, Urken, Allen's Children's Shop.

At Pastimes, where the doll counter is breath-taking, the teenage ten-incher is joined by her family. This shop carries Madame Alexander and Vogue dolls, and the Alexander trio of the year is Classy, Lissy, and Elsie, ranging up in size from Lissy's 12 inches. These gals are well-dressed in silver sandals, nylons, elaborate wedding gowns and all the clothes you can afford.

Strombecker makes excellent wooden furniture for Gyniesize dolls, and you may buy at Urken's, Stuff and Nonsense, Allen's Zinders and Pastimes.

Princeton Stationers joins the parade with a $5.99 bride doll that stands two feet and one inch in height — a real Amazon for somebody to carry over a threshold. (With this doll, you get a free recording of Bing Crosby singing "Because" but you can quietly toss it out before Christmas morning.) A companion to this bride is a career girl — a nurse doll with stethoscope, bandages and the like. She is $5.99 too, and shares the bride's flexibility — they can both bend their knees and sit. Urken's Dollkins is flexible, too. —Continued on Page 16

Leading female parts will be played by Grace Ramus, Kitzi Baker, Phoebe Morgan and Gretchen Childs. Among the men required for the eight scenes from the Giotto frescoes in Padua depicting the life of Christ, important roles will be portrayed by Munro Wade, Henry Ross, William Walker, Braxton Ellerbe and Henry Siegle.

John Drury, in charge of advance ticket sales, reported from his headquarters at 41 Harrison Street that seats for the opening performance at 4 p.m. Sunday, December 15, are selling at a brisk pace. A number of seats for the ensuing six showings—at 7:30 and 9 p.m., December 16, 17 and 18—are still available and can be reserved ($2) by phoning Mr. Drury at WA 4-0575.

Unreserved tickets at $1 apiece will be sold at the Playmill box office, 262 Alexander Street, prior to each performance. All proceeds from the Christmas presentation, the Players' second offering of the fall, will be turned over to the Town Topics Christmas Fund.

CHILDREN'S SERIES.
First show in January, "Dance Wiggins's Dilemma," a pantomime offered in the 120-year-old tradition of the English theatre, will initiate the 26th season of offerings sponsored by the Children's Entertainment Committee of the Borough Parent-Teacher Association. The first show will be presented January 14, as indicated in announcements of the complete program and a ticket information which were mailed recently to all members of the PTA's of both the Township and the Borough.

Subsequent programs to be given

Investors Wanted

Residents of the Princeton area interested in backing future Broadway productions are invited to attend a meeting next Thursday, December 22, at 8:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Knox, 55 Mountain Avenue. Among those present will be members of the "Communiting and Resident Angels," who finished solidly in the bank when they bought a piece of "Inherit the Wind," the hit that starred Paul Muni in a recap of the famous Scopes trial.

Karl G. Light of Cherry Valley Road, who was a leading member of that east and has been seen in a number of theatrical and television productions, is organizing the prospective investors. He has emphasized that large sums are not needed to become a backer, and that small investments by many Princetonians will form the financial support for the group's new ideas. Those interested in attending the organizing meeting are asked to notify Mr. Light at WA 4-0123 or 4-3522.

are "The Since Boy and the Goose" on February 11, "The Enchanted Treasure" on March 11 and a ballet by the Princeton Ballet Society on May 8. All performances, scheduled for 8:30 p.m., will be held at McCarter Theatre.

Mrs. Albert Austin, 10 Princeton Avenue, is handling the mail-order sale of tickets for the children's entertainments and she can be reached at home by phone (WA 4-5722) between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday. As in past years, the committee has suggested purchase of season's tickets—priced at $5.50, $3.50 and $1.50—before they afford youngsters the most desirable seats for the popular series and will not be sold after the first performance. Single tickets are priced at $1.50, 95 cents and 50 cents.

While the original announcements stated that the productions have been selected "as suitable for children from grades one through eight," the first show will be of interest to adults as well. It will mark the first time that a professional troupe has performed the traditional British Christmas pantomime in the United States. A mixture of music, comedy, love and fairy story, the pantomime—despite its classification—uses dialogue and has proved so popular in England that Princess Margaret and then-Princess Elizabeth once participated in an amateur production.

Members of the Children's Entertainment Committee for 1957-58 are Mrs. R.V.C. Whitehead Jr. and Mrs. C.D. Perkins, co-chairmen; Mrs. Austin, tickets; Mr. Raymond F. Male, ushers; and Mrs. Norman Williams Jr., publicity.

Also on Tuesday evening, the Borough board commenced consideration of Sam LaPlace's preliminary bid for a subdivision of 16 lots at the southeast corner of Harrison and Hamilton, across Harrison from the proposed Grand Union location and across Hamilton from Majestic Construction Company's recent development. Mr. LaPlace's initial project would include only the area between Hamilton and Spruce Street. He requested that the board discuss his plans in "executive session," as public expressions on the progress of Princeton's east side — for this week, anyhow — were called to a halt on that abrupt note.

"OPEN OCCUPANCY"

Inter-racial Housing Planned. Princeton Housing Associates, a new business corporation formed and financed by Princeton residents in association with Delaware Valley builders, George E. Otto and Morris Milgram, will open two model homes for public inspection Sunday. The two structures are the first in a development of 40 "open occupancy" houses planned. The corporation announced that three-and-a-half-bedroom custom houses in the $17,800-$26,500 price range will be built on two parcels of land in West Windsor and Princeton Townships. The model homes are located on a 13-acre West Windsor site, "Glen Acres," on the Princeton side of Route 1 along Alexander Road.

"Maple Crest," the second site, consists of 10 acres between Mount Lucas Road and Ewing Street, north of Cuyler Road in Princeton Township. Beginning Sunday, Stuart E. Wallace, sales manager, will be at the Alexander Road site from noon to dark daily and weekends to show the model homes.

Mr. Wallace stressed that preference will be given to persons now living or working in the Princeton area and that homes will be sold to both white and non-white buyers. Mortgage financing will be arranged for buyers on liberal terms, he said.

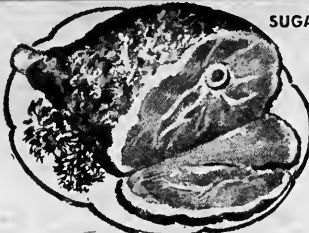

Ranch and Split-Level. Fifteen ranch and split-level homes from $17,900 are planned on the West Windsor site. Land is being cleared now for the construction of the other units. Work on houses at the Princeton Township site, where 25 units are planned, will begin within a few weeks. Homes at that site will be priced from $13,500.

Mrs. Lester V. Chandler, chairman of the Princeton Housing Group, commented that the "open occupancy" development "indicates that Princeton is beginning to accept the challenge extended to our community last summer by the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Housing." The Housing Group is an association of citizens who seek an open housing market.

FOUR LOSE LICENSES

It was listed as intoxicated. Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro temporarily terminated the driving activities of four defendants in Borough Court on Tuesday. Revocations ranged from 30 days to two years.

Pleading not guilty to drunken driving but convicted were Thomas E. Walser, 35, RD 1, and Charles McFulish, 31, RD 1, Trenton. Both men were fined $225 and cannot drive again for two years. Mr. Walser said he plans an appeal.

Raymond Sibert, Jr., 37, 190 Washington Road, was given a six-month revocation for speeding, part of which he incurred for making a remark to the court clerk while paying his fine which Judge Chesebro considered insulting. The fine was $15.

Miss Beverly A. Merzhon, 18, 34 Berrian Avenue, Princeton Junior, paid $25 and lost her license for 30 days. The speeding charge against her was the second in less than a month.

Other drivers fined were William H. Rhodes, Jr., 18, 14 Hornet Lane, careless driving, $25; and Mrs. Helen K. Welles, 50, 248 Moore Street, speeding, $10.

NEW SENTENCE

Township Court Actos, Magistrate Louis R. Gerber invoked a new kind of sentence Tuesday night in Township Court. He made it a condition for a 17-year-old high school student to become a "safety counselor" and tell his friends about the dangers of careless driving in order to retain his driver's license.

The student is Berend Everson, of Hollow Road, Skillman. He was charged with careless driving in connection with an accident and was fined $20. Other fines included: Marjuna Van Wheel, 99 W. Broad Street, Hopewell, careless driving, $15; and James Hoyle, 24, of 219-C Halsey Street, parking near a fire hydrant, $15.

Steven K. Fox, 45, of Rosedale Lane paid $25 for careless driving on Moore Street in connection with an accident. Curtis E. Yeske, 24, of 62 Delaware Avenue, Lambertville, was fined $25 for speeding and $15 for driving in a car that had not been inspected. Herman L. Broadway, 26, of 12 Birch Avenue was fined $25 for careless driving, and J. W. James, 38, of 82 Witherspoon Street, paid $15 for the same offense. George T. Geary of 202 Birch Avenue was fined $10 for parking more than six inches from the curb. Summonses for careless driving to Raymond R. Wadsworth, 23, of Princeton Tourist Court, and Mrs. Jane T. Lindquist, 25, of 47 University Place, were dismissed. The two drivers were involved in an accident at the intersection of College Road and Washington Road in which Mr. Wadsworth was injured.

Birth 1st. A total of nine births to Princeton area residents was recorded last week at Princeton Hospital. Seven were boys and two were girls.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cartwright, 12 Wilder Avenue, Penn Neck; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bridgman, Crest Avenue, Rocky Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Cooper, 5 Second Street, Hopewell; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, Hershovon Road; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Juviler, 221-C Halsey Street; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hotchler, 52 Leigh Avenue; and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen R. Michael, 267 Hamilton Avenue.

Parents of daughters are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McLaughlin, 21 Railroad Place, Hopewell, and Mr. and Mrs. James D. Talman, 415-B Butler Avenue.

Christmas Party Planned. The members' husbands will be invited to the annual Christmas party of the Lions Auxiliary Monday at 7 p.m.

The home of Mrs. Harry P. Petrozini at 18 Snowden Lane has been chosen for the gathering. A smorgasbord will be served.

JAYWALKERS DISCUSSED: Patrolman Douglas Watson of the Borough Police and taxicab driver Lawrence Ferrara exchange amusing and sometimes hair-raising stories about the carelessness of Princeton's casual jay-walkers as they chat at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon, in the heart of Princeton's traffic concentration. For a report on their and other opinions, see below.

- Question of the Week

Question: In view of jaywalking ordinances instituted by other cities and communities, do you think that Princeton has a jaywalking problem, and if so, what steps do you think should be taken?

Location: Along Nassau Street and around town.

Paul R. Chesebro, Borough magistrate and chairman of the Traffic Coordination Committee, 170 Moore Street: There is no question but that there is a jaywalking problem. You can go up to Nassau Street and see people in everywhere where they should not at any time you want. It is quite hard to enforce any kind of ordinance here. I don't think I don't think the students are jaywalking any more than the other people. I see no need to clamp down now, but if it gets any worse, we will do something about it.

If a person were given a ticket for jaywalking and came before me, I can't anticipate what my decision would be. If it were a habitual case, it would probably result in a fine. Whether we can do something effectively is a real problem. The jaywalking hazard is becoming more acute with the increasing traffic flow. The state statute against jaywalking on highways is being violated every day. Unfortunately, there probably won't be any action until after several people have been seriously hurt.

Lawrence Ferrara, taxi driver, 230 Witherspoon Street: Last week as I was pulling out on a green light, a student came running across the street in front of me. He had left the other curb without even looking at the light. I had to come to a dead stop to avoid hitting him. That's the trouble we have - people don't even look. If anything happens, we can drivers will be the ones they'll blame. People should be encouraged to be careful, but I don't think we need an ordinance.

Douglas Watson, Borough policeman, 37 Fisher Avenue: I think people should be given a warning first if a move were made to start issuing citations to jaywalkers. A drive against jaywalking might bring cooperation. A main problem is that people walk into the street from between cars, causing motorists to stop quickly because they are not on guard as they are at crosswalks.

David L. Crawford, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, 231 Riverside Drive: There is jaywalking for sure. Whether it is a problem, the policemen should know. I suppose it is a part of Princeton's total traffic problem. Actually, I would think bicycles are a greater problem than jaywalking. I think it would help motorists if bicycle and jaywalking regulations were made more strict. This town orientates toward the casual approach, and if you apply this to the steering wheel, if the police felt it would help, signs could be put at the crossing saying "Kindly Cross Here."

On Crossing the Street

A high percentage of the traffic in Princeton moves along Nassau Street and Washington Road. Both of these arteries are also "hot spots" for many of the community's pedestrians. Add a goodly number of the "Mid-ers-in-Between," the bicyclists and a motor-scooterists, and you have a fair picture of the human hatching and thithering that occurs each day in this relatively small and presumably sedate suburban community.

Other suburban areas, however, are experiencing a similar situation, with all its inherent jaywalking problems. Several of the communities have discussed stricter enforcement of laws against jaywalking, including the issuance of a summons against the offender. This week, Town Topics has sought comments on the motorist - pedestrian situation here and the suggestion of what, if anything, can be done.

John H. Smith, Borough police chief, 16 Witherspoon Street: I read that in New York and Philadelphia they were putting up lights to say "Don't Walk," but I think we have a more difficult situation than they do, with the students constantly crossing Nassau Street and Washington Roads along all points. We have never enforced jaywalking laws, and I don't see how we could. We simply wouldn't have enough men. However, the accident rate (pedestrian-auto) is low—in fact, I can't remember when the last instance was. If people were being hit, of course, we'd have to figure out a solution.

Alice Munson, student at Westminster Choir College: Motorists here always have to watch out for jaywalkers, particularly with the congestion on Nassau Street.—Continued on Page 19

She comes in some very flexible Mandarin lounging pants with jacket and high-heeled shoes. Earrings too. "My Fair Lady" presents Miss Dowlittle in black and white. A formal doll shows off bare shoulders in a black sequined formal. Next to her is a nun doll, and Poor Diffid Pearl.

Allen's best-seller is lovable old Raggedy Ann and her brother Andy. Nitey-Nite and Draft-Dodder baby dolls in this store wear their name-sake majesties.

Clayton's on Palmer Square has Schlaparelli's Tu-Tu doll, an eight-inch with close-cropped hair that makes her look more urbane than some her size.

Stuff and Nonsense has beautiful felt Italian dolls, each dressed in a different provincial costume. They stand six inches high and cost $2. Clayton's has the two-inch European dolls for costume collectors or doll-house proprietors.

See for this tremendous fanily on Stuff's little battery-operated sewing machine from Japan. When the battery goes, you can run it by hand. Nitchu has a machine in a case with doll and pre-cut clothes — Zinder's and Tiger. Tea services from China and Japan at Kung Ping on Witherspoon. Stuff's too-net has its own wooden cupboard to hang on the nursery wall. Prepare the most elaborate gourmet meal on a toy electric kitchen set. a Tiger Auto. It has an ovenette, an electric frying pan and a sauce pan for $9.95, all full of volts and ready to go.

For transportation, there are Thayer doll carriages at Pastimes and various models at Allen's and Zinders.

VULETIDE SPIRIT: Mrs. M. F. Healy, Jr. bolsters a drive for needy children with a gift of toys. Now in progress, the drive is being conducted by the Family Service Agency which will repair the toys and present them to deserving children in the community. Watching the transaction are Mrs. Healy's daughters, Anne and Elizabeth, Arthur Johnston, a route man for the University Center and Laundry, accepts the gift. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

A Fold-Away Doll House, Clayton's, looks like a book until you open and unfold its pages, then it's a four-room house, accessories for a very small doll-house: Bible (one inch), playing cards, knitting, eye glasses and a copy of the Chicago Tribune... for full-size human dolls, a 48-inch set with chains to hang the "chairs on, $2.95 at Tiger and Thorne's Drug Store.

For Cuddling. The smallest members of the family who like something soft to hold while working on a lumb, are going to be well-served by this year's presents. Thorne's, 165 Nassau, has Knickerbocker plush toys that start with a musketeer monkey and a musketeer Santa, both with removable hats and washable faces. A musketeer panda ($6.95) has a zipper so you can remove his voice when you wash his furry back.

The Thorne collection also includes Droopy, a white dog who seems to crave attention, a grey elephant with an insurmountable air, and a 10-inch boy named Donny who is taking a pair of Scotties for a walk. There are plush puppets at Thorne's, too, for $1.95. There's a panda, a bear and a dog, sealed down to small hands.

Terry toys, stuffed with foam, can go right into the tub. There's a doll and some animals for 98 cents with a tube of bubble-bath.

A shaggy Scallyham in a plaid blanket welcomes visitors to the Clothes Line on Palmer Square. Its shelf companions are a pink bear with blue gingham ears, a zebra you'll have to look at twice because he's black and white checks instead of stripes, a Siel-lond pony in pale camels-hair tan, and a bug-eyed Frog Who Would A-Wooling Go.

The Clothes Line's favorite is the loola, and Pastimes' is the autograph Scottie ($2.95) that has a pen in his purchase price.

Urken's stuffed toys have, as a rule, plastic faces and hands, like Cha-Cha the Clown and the elephant that turns slowly on one foot while his insides play "Rock-A-Bye-Baby." Our favorite at Urken's is a very long, very lean black dachshund, $4.95, bundled in a tartan jacket. Lassie is here, too.

A spaniel with real lambs' wool hair is the pet of Princeton Stationers. Here's another sleepy droopy dog to lure wide-eyed children into sleep. The town's smallest stuffed animal, an at Clayton's — little Stele, bears, monkeys and elephants.

Pre-Kindergarten. Doopee, a new name in nursery toys, puts out the year's newest pre-school stuff. You'll find it at Stud 'N Nonsense and Pastimes. The toys are wood, rather like Playmobil, and Helgate, but with an air of their own.

Turn a wooden crank and one-inch balls go up a burning metal spiral, in a hole, down a zig-zag series of ramps, out a hole and into the spiral again. Hypnotic. In another toy, you put balls down a chimney then turn a crank and watch them spring out to hit a bell. There's a wooden drill for boys, an egg-beater for girls, and a stacking cone. The cone is acrylic, but Doopee gives it something new — a string so the various parts can't get lost.

Animals! Domestic and wild (lamb and giraffe) they have been realistically cast in rubber by a sculptor who knows anatomy. Buy them for farm or zoo, at Stud 'N Nonsense. The giraffe Stuffed Nonsense, the domestics are 14 inches high, the domestics scaled for kindergarten blocks.

Two circuses will catch your eye and purse. One at Stuff has a two-inch ringmaster and, sealed to his size, animal cages that open and shut, wire tunnels to the cage for safety from that panther, a tent, bears on a saw-saw — well, you know. Pastimes' circus has a five-inch ringmaster, with carved wooden animals, an old-fashioned circus has a five-inch ringmaster, with carved wooden animals, an old-fashioned circus wagon and figures with notched hands so they can grasp ropes and bars.

The same company nukes, for Pastimes, a rodeo with cowboys, calf, stands, and corral fence all carved robustly in wood; a Noah's ark with Noah and his friends (top life-size); and a farm with silo, barn, three-inch lamb, a fat comb on the rooster and a general air of plenty. Sturdy, indestructible wooden toys that YALE MEN HONOR NASSAU HALL: Artist Dudley Morris (right) presents a print of his painting of Nassau Hall to Henry A. Savage (left) for the Princetoniana Collection in Firestone Library. will satisfy a child's imagination and an adult's esthetic sense. Any age will respond to Stuff's first engine with real rubber hose that you can fasten to the outdoor faucet and use to squirt anybody—pardon, anything. There's a magnificent wooden bus, cream-colored, with vestibules, roomy seats for the passengers, a full 22-inch length and endless weight-bearing possibilities.

Thorne's baby toys bring a Roman luxury to any bath. The problem is one of choice. Prices start at 98 cents. Or try a "rattle doll" to tie on a high-chair or playpen, or a musical rattle-poly for 98. A toy dial telephone ($2) will keep small hands from experimenting with the real thing. Actually a bank, anything junior will pay the phone bill. Urken's has Hologate and Child Guidance toys, including a wonderful figure called "Pipe Dream" which presents a child with various forms and shapes and just lets him alone to build according to his imagination. Allen's has Playkool, with its big take-apart trucks and airplanes. Zinder's has Strombecker's wooden trackless trains for small engineers, and a fine set of five nested blocks the biggest one of which is a ten-inch cube. Priced at $1.98 and made of very heavy cardboard which an adult can sit on—assuming he wants to.

Just for Fun, Kung Ping has a charming Japanese wooden house, $1.98, that has a secret drawer. Only you know where it is, and only the drawer can open the secret bank and provide the secret key. Wow!

Urken's has millions of banks—a coin register, a mailbox, a bubble-gum dispenser, Stuff 'N Nonsense has a wonderful wooden bank. It's a red mushroom with a sit atop for your penny. The proprietor of this mushroom house is a small game who sits, swinging, in a swing that really swings.

Wonderful stocking-stuffers at Kung Ping: a painted wooden egg nest (65 cents), a painted wooden trick box (45 cents) to puzzle over all Christmas afternoons, two wobbly-headed Japanese dolls, girl and boy, with a smaller one inside each; colored paper toys (5 cents) that fold in simple waves when you shake them.

Try wooden boxes with, perhaps, a mushroom top. Or at Clayton's, hand-carved and painted. Buy a $1.25 Christmas tree with charms for ornaments, or an eight-inch clown on stilts. He sits on a tire and runs down.

Dazzle eyes, worms in various guises—here we're caught at Radio Center's tick department. Here's a plate lifter, a stickler to hold cup to saucer; a "nail" to put in a tire and a golf ball that zig-

Tickets in a Sock

"Dame Wiggins Dilemma" is a charming pantomime in the tradition of English Christmas, and it will be given in McCarter Theater on January 14 as the first presentation of the Children's Entertainment season sponsored by the Parent-Teachers' Association of Nassau Street School.

Tickets to "Dilemma" and the three succeeding productions would make a delightful stocking gift for any child and you may buy these season tickets by writing to Children's Entertainment Committee, c/o Mrs. Albert A. Austin, 10 Princeton Avenue. Prices are $1.85, $3.50 and $5.50 for the four.

After Dame Wiggins solves her Dilemma—whatever it may be—the series will offer "Space Boys and the Goose" on February 11; "The Enchanted Treasure" on March 11 and the annual ballet on May 8.

zags (we know some real ones that, zig-zag, too, depending on who's at the end of the club).

There's a Santa puppet by Steiff at Pastimes, and a Santa surprise ball at Stuff 'N

Let 'em Roll! Wheeled toys can begin with the three-inch Microracer by Schuco of Germany, and Zinders. Costs $2.50, makes 20 m.p.h. Midget sports cars and racers, under two inches in length, are heavy and solid with wheels and real rubber tires, in a plastic case for 79 cents.

Elke, at the other end of the axel, come from Urken's where they cost $3.95 for a light-weight 26-inch. Tiger has sidewalk 16-inch bikes from $2.95 and on up in size and price. Wagons at Tiger start at $1.99 and come in good old red, yellow, turquoise and even salmon pink.

For a real ride, look at two toys at Pastimes and Allen's. Pastimes' is a seven-foot tubular steel rocker with wooden steps at the ends. One child stands on each end step and away they rock. Allen's, for younger children, is a Red-E-Coach with two gentle hills and a little wagon to scoot down in.

Tomika's big truck fleet covers the globe—Urken, Pastimes—and Stricco offers stiff competition: Allen's, Zinder's, Tiger. These are the big jobs that mix concrete, express-haul across the continent and build America's roads—well, the roads in your back-yard, anyhow.

Inside the house, you might furnish a child's room for Christmas, or at least buy her a musical Boston rocker from Pastimes or Allen's. At Allen's, we found a very staid, roll-top desk ($39.99) with pigeonholes, drawers, lock and key and even a seivel chair.

Flat-top is $29.95. There are square "bridge" sets with folding chairs, round tea-tables, and dozens of rockers. Some are musical, some are not. Some are maple, some are black. One has a demure skirted slip-cover, Colonial style.

Grandmothers could buy a lamp for the nursery this year. We liked the birdhouse one, but the clowns are appealing, too; it's hard to choose. All are wooden bases, charmingly painted in nursery colors. A wall clothes hanger in this store is really a clown's outstretched arms with six hangers to keep things neat. It's $4.95.

Tiger has table and chairs painted to look like mother's metal-and-plastic kitchen ones. Little workbenches and stoves with attached seat will appeal to younger children.

The Right Note, Music Boxes send their sweet music through Stuff 'N Nonsense, where they come in Christmas or year-round designs. A hurdy-purdy man grinds out a Strauss waltz, a

MUSIC In Princeton

THREE RECITALS PLANNED

Szigeti and Buscotti Here. The friends of Music at Princeton are offering a unique series of three concerts to Princeton music-lovers. The series is called "A 20th Century Cycle of Violin Sonatas" and will feature two widely-known performers, Joseph Szigeti, violinist, and Carlo Buscotti, pianist. As in the case of all events sponsored by the Friends of Music, the recitals will be open to the public without charge.

The concerts will be held in Procter Hall of the Graduate College on Sunday, December 8, at 3:15 p.m., and on Monday and Tuesday, December 9 and 10, at 8:30. The programs of all three will be made up of sonatas for violin and piano composed since 1950.

On Sunday afternoon, Szigeti and Buscotti will play "Sonata in A Major" by Vaughan-Williams; "Sonata in E" by Hindemith; "Duo Concertino" by Stravinsky; and "Sonata No. 1" by Ernest Bloch. Monday evening, Szigeti will play "Sonata in G" by Debussy, and Bartok's second sonata will be played. The last concert will feature Bouger's first sonata; "Violin Solo Sonata, Opus 115" by Prokofiev; Charles El. Ives' "Sonata No. 4"; and a sonata by Ravel.

The program, played by the two artists who have made the performance of this music their unique specialty, covers a wide variety of styles. It will furnish the listener with a rare opportunity to hear compositions in the medium of sonatas by some of the most famous composers of the 20th century.

Joseph Szigeti first played in America in 1925 with the Philadelphia Orchestra. Perhaps the most travelled of virtuosos, he has appeared in every music center of the world and at virtually every important festival. He has made two tours around the world and makes annual European and American tours. In 1954 he toured ten South American countries, and in 1953 his tour of Japan had to be extended from 23 to 27 concerts. His farewell concert-his tenth in Tokyo-was held in an outdoor stadium in order to accommodate 25,000 listeners.

Carlo Buscotti has been recognized especially for his penetrating interpretation of contemporary music. Piano concerts have been written for him by distinguished contemporary composers, such as Ildeardo Malipiero and Percy Grainger.

He made his debut at 14 and has played in all the principal countries with Szigeti at the tour of Japan in 1953 and performed as soloist with the Tokyo Symphony.

BOYCHOIR CONCERT

To Feature Christmas Music As its first "hometown" concert since its recent triumphant tour of South America, the Columbia Boychoir of Princeton will offer a special program of Christmas music on December 21. Two performances—afternoon and evening—will be conducted at McCher Theatre.

Under the supervision of Donald T. Bryant, the famous boy singers will present a two-part program. First, they will sing Christmas favorites, including the best-loved carols, for which they have become noted throughout the world. Second, they will present "Amahl and the Night Visitors," Gian-Carlo Menotti's now-popular Christmas opera.

Menotti's work, sung in English, has become an annual Yule event over the National Broadcasting Company's television network since its initial performance in 1951. And, ever since that first rendition, the Columbia Boychoir has proved the source of talent for the leading role of Amahl. Menotti, as well as other leaders of the world of music, has frequently praised the Columbia Boychoir's part in making "Amahl and the Night Visitors" one of the fine pieces of modern American music. The boys' presentation of the opera at McCher will represent its first stage production in the Princeton area.

The Boychoir's lengthy South American tour, arranged by the U.S. Department of State, has been labelled "an outstanding musical success" by a number of critics, who particularly liked the purity of tone and perfection of rendition in the boys' coverage of Christmas and sacred music. And State Department officials throughout Latin America have reported that the Princeton youths personified the spirit of America so admirably that they were called "little good-will ambassadors" wherever they appeared.

Tickets for the delayed "welcome home" concert will be placed on sale at the University Store on December 8. Meanwhile, advance mail or telephone reservations will be accepted at the Columbus Boychoir School on Rosedale Road.

Princeton Symphony Broadcast. Music performed by the Princeton Symphony Orchestra will be broadcast weekly over WRPB, Princeton University's station, starting next Sunday. The first broadcast will be made around 2 p.m. on "Sketch Book," a Sunday program running from 12:30 to 3:30, featuring longer selections and including lectures with John Becker as the announcer.

The broadcast Sunday will consist of the Einstein Memorial Concert which originally took place in 1955. Robert Casadesu is the soloist in Mozart's "Coronation" piano concerto with Nicholas Harnanyi conducting.

Glee Clubs to Sing. A combined concert of the Glee Clubs of The Hun School and of Kent Place School in Summit will be held in the First Presbyterian Church next Sunday at 8 p.m. The public is invited.

Works by Byrd, Geveart and Bach will be performed by the Kent Place chorus. Directed by Ellen Richter, they will also sing French, Ukrainian and Breton carols. The Hun School club will perform works by Torstens, Bach and Handel, directed by Thomas Hilbish.

Question Of The Week

I think people should take it on themselves to cut down on jaywalking so that police won't have to start issuing a summons.

N. Howell Furnace, professor of chemistry at Princeton University, 301 Prospect Street, think a campaign would help. The thing, I worry about is kids darting out from behind cars. I think something must be done. Most of the older people who jaywalk watch where they are going. We need the cooperation of parents to help train their children.

Paul Duva, taxi driver, 33 Oakland Road: It's very bad. I suggest they put up "Walk" and "Don't Walk" signs to go along with the traffic lights at Nassau and Witherspoon. Like in bigger cities. If there isn't a good law on jaywalking, there should be one. We see it all day long every day.

ETS Sees Testing SHIR. Testing that will emphasize allowing the individual tested to help understand his talents rather than testing for others who want to judge him will assume increasing importance in the coming years, directors of Educational Testing Service have reported. They feel that only if individuals are aided in "seeing themselves" can the democratic principle of free choice of a career prove effective in practice.

Dr. William W. Turnbull, executive vice-president of ETS, emphasized, however, that it was the duty of measurement organizations to insure that their testing programs "do not dictate, but merely help describe." Dr. Turnbull warned that making decisions solely on the basis of tests, without weighing other factors and in-out weighing would lead to another form of dictation, not unlike a totalitarian force.

Speaking for ETS, the only national organization in the United States specifically devoted to research in the field of educational measurement, Dr. Turnbull reported: "In the coming years we will be increasingly interested in testing for guidance rather than testing for selection. We are now interested in developing examinations that will test such qualities as creativity, persistence, reasoning power, memory and the ability of the mind to relate and to integrate."

He added that "testing in the personality sphere is, we are sorry to have to say, quite crude," while highly accurate tests for such purposes as selection for admission to colleges have been achieved.

A STEP and a Revealing. Two broad moves can already be cited toward the new emphasis. Last summer, ETS introduced a sequence of tests to trace a student's progress from the fourth year of elementary school through sophomore year in college. As another move toward self-know-edge, the College Entrance Examination Board, together with ETS, has announced that beginning in December, 1958, College Entrance Examination scores will be made known to the students tested.

The new series of tests are called the "Sequential Tests of Educational Progress," or STEP. They attempt to measure the ability of the students to use what they have learned in the classroom and they record measurement of critical skills in seven areas: essay writing, listening comprehension, reading comprehension, writing, science, mathematics and social studies. Dr. Turnbull said the tests were a "step" toward an objective description of learning abilities and fields of best ability.

Tests developed thus far have proved accurate in measuring attitudes of an academic nature and have been "quite good" at differentiating between a high mental and verbal ability. From its work with the National Merit Scholarship Tests, ETS has found indication that a good proportion of the best young minds in the country, possibly as high as 50%, are devoting their talents to science.

Encouraged by the success of academic testing, Dr. Turnbull said that he feels that many of the basic problems in this part of measurement have been solved. He said that ETS hopes now to make similar progress in the non-intellectual sphere and in the area of personality description.

FUN FOR YOUNGSTERS. Police Schedule Party. Princeton boys and girls who have served faithfully as members of the School Safety Patrol will be rewarded for their efforts. On December 23, from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m., some 125 members of the patrol will be given an elaborate Christmas party at the University Cottage Club, 51 Prospect Avenue.

Highlights of the festive occasion will be children's movies, a special entertainment (possibly a magician) and a full-scale turkey dinner. Speakers will include Councilman Harry A. Furr, police commissioner; John H. Smith, Borough police chief, and Raymond Mondone, police lieutenant.

As in the past, the party honoring patrol participants will be sponsored by a large number of Princeton merchants and the Borough police force. Sgt. Robert J. Anderson and Patrolman James J. Anderson will be in charge. Continued on Page 22

CURTISS-WRIGHT PLANT TO HOUSE C.W. DIVISION: Nearing completion and looking the part of a brand-new edifice, the multi-million-dollar Curtiss-Wright plant on Quaker Bridge Road is almost ready for occupancy—by one of C-W's own divisions. An official communique this week (see story below) quitted rumors regarding possible occupancy by some different company. (Photo by Chachowski)

BUSINESS In Princeton

RUMORS QUIETED

As Curtiss-Wright Moves In, Dispelling any and all Princeton rumors to the contrary, Curtiss-Wright Corporation—through Roy T. Hurley, chairman and president—announced this week that it is now occupying its new plant on Quaker Bridge Road in nearby Lawrence Township. Construction of the modern site, including fully air-conditioned administrative and engineering offices, manufacturing facilities and laboratories, was begun in November last year, and is scheduled for completion this month.

Recent Nassau Street rumors led observers to believe that C-W might sub-lease the new plant to some other major corporation because of Congressional cutbacks in military and defense budgets, and the logical conclusion that C-W was bound to lose a lot of government business. Members of the Lawrence Township Committee pool-poohed these rumors just before election-time. This week's announcement from C-W supported them almost as conclusively as the Lawrence voters did at the polls.

In issuing his statement from the corporation's headquarters in Wood-Ridge, Mr. Hurley said the firm is transferring the facilities and operations of the Industrial and Scientific Products Division from Caldwell to Princeton. The division will occupy all of the new structure now nearing completion on C-W's 20-acre property off U.S. Route 1.

Activities of the Turbomotor Division, which were originally earmarked for the new building, will be integrated into the facilities of the Wright Aeronautical Division, located in Wood-Ridge, where extensive design and development work is presently being done for all types of engines for aircraft and non-aircraft uses. Originally, more than 5,000 workers were expected to join the division of the Turbomotor Division in Lawrence. This week's report made no mention of potential working force with the Industrial and Scientific Products Division.

The division being transferred specializes in the design, development and manufacture of ultrasonic cleaning and test equipment, and is presently marketing the C-W Immercoater and Echoscope, which have gained wide acceptance throughout industry for the non-destructive testing of metals, plastic and other materials.

In addition, the products division produces a variety of sizes and types of ultrasonic cleaning equipment. Transfer of the operations is being effected to acquire increased space for the rapidly expanding division which was established by C-W in 1954.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH

As McGraw-Hill Comes Here, Stealing a page from ASCOP's book, McGraw-Hill Publishing Company has announced the start of construction of a $2,500,000 new book distribution warehouse between Princeton and Hightstown. Freeholder Frank J. Black, director of the Mercer County Industrial Commission, said the warehouse will be built on a 38-acre tract on the Princeton-Hightstown Road, about a quarter mile west of U.S. Route 130, on part of what is known as the Scott Farm. Joseph Lowery Company of New York has been awarded the general contract for construction of the one-story building of approximately 200,000 square feet of floor space, to be composed of prestressed concrete. Roger Williams, industrial development manager of the Jersey Central Power & Light Company, assisted the Industrial Commission in turning the company to Mercer County, with William A. Mount of Hightstown handling the actual site sale.

H. ALGER REMEMBERED

As Dream Comes True, Years ago, when he started his career as a retail furniture salesman in Winston-Salem, South Carolina, Robert Barden started dreaming about opening a furniture store of his own. Fortunately, he didn't dream on the job and today, thanks to a lot of hard work, he has his own store at Princeton Shopping Center. His dream has come true.

"That was back in the early Thirties," the elated storeowner recalled this week, reviving the thought of his dream and observing that, "in those days, a man could only afford one dream and that could not be a fancy one. So I just dreamed of owning an ordinary one-man, hole-in-the-wall type of store with a few pieces of furniture for resale."

Mr. Barden remembered that he was kept busy in those early days "wiring a feature item each month for a furniture trade journal, when a national chain got the idea, mistaken or not, that I was a good furniture man." He soon found himself merchandizing over 100 furniture departments for a national chain of stores, which was the next thing to running his own place because he "had a lot of fun and gained a lot of valuable experience."

"Eighteen penny-pinching years" later, dreamer Barden covered most of the eastern and middle portions of the nation in search of the ideal spot to cultivate his dream of long-standing. "I decided that Princeton was the ideal spot for my dream to materialize, but I ran into another difficulty—there was no store or apartment in Princeton." So the determined businessman found an available building in Flemington and opened there.

For the past nine years, Flemington has proved a happy and successful location for Mr. Barden and his son, Robert Jr. "I still had it in my mind to open a retail furniture store in Princeton," Mr. Barden confided, "and a few days ago my dream finally came true—my son and I opened a new furniture store in the Princeton Shopping Center. But it is not the kind of store I had dreamed of because, when I started dreaming, I never imagined an air-conditioned store opening on a beautifully landscaped mall. When my dream started, no one had even heard of a shopping center."

The proud owner of Princeton's newest store admitted he "only wanted one store" and now he owns a pair. "It just goes to show Horatio really was! I had read everything Horatio Alger had ever written and I knew it could be done! I think a monument should be erected to that man Horatio Alger!"

He is married, has two children and is a member of the New Jersey Society of CPAs, the American Institute of CPAs, the National Association of Cost Accountants, Rotary, Elks and Delta Sigma Psi.

C., and at Rider, Mr. Mernone, a veteran of four and a half years with the Air Force in the Pacific, previously worked as a CPA for Joseph Acre in Independence, Kansas, and for various CPA firms in the Trenton area. He is married, has one child and is a member of both the state and national CPA organizations, the Washington Council of the Boy Scouts of America and he is a former deacon and trustee of the Xerxville Presbyterian Church.

OLD FIRM HONORED

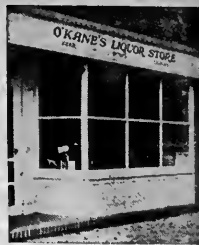

Two Structures Cited, Fulmer & Bowers, Princeton architects, and Harry Terry, consulting engineer from Trenton, have been awarded second honors for two of their structures in the 1957 International lighting competition sponsored by McGraw-Hill (see above). The honors were awarded the lighting in the recently completed U.S. Bronze Foundry Works, Inc., plant in Flemington and the Niagara Box Company, Inc., factory in Fairtown.

The U.S. Bronze entry was made by Mr. Terry in co-sponsorship with Fulmer & Bowers, while the consulting engineer entered Niagara jointly with the electrical contractor, Fulmer & Bowers were the architects for both buildings.

SPORTS In Princeton

TWO WEEKEND GAMES

Hockey at 2. Basketball at 8. Princeton winter sports teams will see action Saturday, the afternoon contest at 2 in Baker Rink opening the hockey team's season against Northeastern. That evening at 8 in Dillon Gym, Georgetown will face the basketball team in the Tiger quintet's second outing of the new campaign.

If the sophomore Class of 1960 can produce for Dick Vaughan as others of its members have this past fall in football, an upswing in Princeton hockey fortunes is probable. Off last year's disastrous 2-13 record, it probably is anyway, but hopes for sizeable improvement are high.

Sophomores are currently contributing the manpower for the center on the first line, all three members of the second line and half of the reserve defensive pair. In the battle for goalie, a close race is on between senior Sid Guberaman and sophomore Rick Torrey.

Anchoring the first line as center is sophomore Perry Hall, with Captain Harry Rulon-Miller and Bill Angus on the wings. The trio that will replace them consists of John McBride, captain of last year's freshmen (9 won, 4 lost); and classmates Tony Pell and Pete Cook.

Vaughan's first line of defense is considered well by average, staffed as it is by senior Doug Levick and junior Morris Morris. Junior Larry Eilman and sophomore Tom Campbell will spell them.

Northeastern will provide a good early measuring stick of the team's ability, since it not only holds a 3-2 record over the Tigers in the past five years but last week took Yale into the final period before dropping a 5-3 decision. The Tigers have two more home games next weekend, facing Providence College Friday night and Army Saturday night. They then have four consecutive road games, two before and two after Christmas, and will open Ivy League play against Harvard here on January 11.

Princeton's defending titleholder, is an odds-on favorite to repeat its 8-for-8 record of last winter when all six of its starters were named to the all-Ivy team. Princeton hopes that, whereas last year it finished in a 1-7 tie with Brown, this season it will battle Yale and Dartmouth for the run-up spot these three shared.

QUINTET AIMS HIGH

TIGERS ARE TIDE-MINDED. Although Yale's defending champions are picked to repeat in the Ivy Basketball League, the prediction will receive strong argument from Dartmouth and Princeton. One or more of the remaining five may better the pre-season forecasts for them and make it a four-way race, but the Elis, Indians and Tigers appear to have the edge on them.

The Orange and Black goes into the new season with the knowledge that it has the league's two rebounders on its team. As in football, possession is vital to success.

Carl Belz tied for top honors in rebounding last season with Yale's captain, Ed Robinson, who has since graduated. Right behind them was Whitley Fulmer, captain of the Tigers this year, so Princeton has a major asset in this pair. Both are also good enough to be in double figures consistently, with the Tigers' fortunes accordingly resting largely on their shoulders.

Starting with them in a practice game Friday against St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia were juniors Joe Burns and Art Klein and sophomore Bob Brangan. The visitors, who played this season, showed little as the Orange and Black ran up a 42-29 half-time lead, and then really poured it on with a final reading of 85-61.

Princeton had no trouble in working out of an all-court press that St. Joseph's used in the second half, and will no doubt encounter similar defensive strategy in the weeks ahead. Lack of ability to dribble and pass effectively when the opposition contested play in the back court has raised hob with the Orange and Black in both of the last two seasons.

The Tigers, who opened their season Wednesday night against Lafayette, will play their third home game of the season next Thursday against Upsala. A trip to Ann Arbor to meet Navy and one to New Brunswick to face Rutgers wind up the pre-Christmas schedule.

Coppon will lead his quintet to Kansas City for a holiday tournament against the Big Seven teams. The Tigers will face Nebraska in the first round.

FOOTBALL POST-SCHRIFF

Sapoch and Tiley honored. It was a simple matter this year to name the winner of the Poe Cup and next season's captain in advance, since both were such clear-cut choices for the honors captain and quarterback of the Ivy champions, was awarded the Poe Cup at Monday's football banquet at the Princeton Inn. It is the highest honor the University can confer on a member of the team.

Four residents of the Princeton area are members of this year's varsity hockey team at the University. Together with Doug Levick, who lived here for a number of years before moving to White Plains, N.Y., all are alumni of Princeton Country Day School, where they first played the sport.

Captain of the 1957-58 varsity is Harry Rulon-Miller, of 6 Newlin Road, one of the top players to represent the Orange and Black on ice. Sophomores on the squad include Grenville Cuyler, 32 Edgehill Street, a defenseman; Tom Urbanick, Yardley, Pa., a forward; and Peter Cook, Kingston, currently a member of the second line. The latter is the son of the freshman hockey coach.

game in his varsity career save the four he missed as a sophomore while out with a fractured collarbone, was an extremely fine fullback this season. He not only led the team in rushing with 592 yards and a fine 4.7 average through the middle but he was ahead of a number of good backs in holding down top rung on the scoring ladder with 52 points.

Sapoch was the only Princeton player to place on the all-Ivy team, while Tiley, Tom Morris and Bob Casciola were named to the second team and Jim Valaska, Dave Grubb and Dan Sachs received honorable mention.

Attendance Up. Figures released on football attendance for 1957 showed that Princeton had its best home season for six games since 1949. The total in Palmer Stadium ran to 101,185 — topped in the post-war era only by 1949 and 1947. The figure for the latter year was 204,113 for six games.

Both the Yale and Dartmouth games this season were played before capacity audiences, marking the first time in the Stadium's 43-year history that it has been sold out on successive Saturdays. Other attendances, in round figures, Pennsylvania, 27,000; Cornell, 26,000; Rutgers, 24,000; and Colgate, 22,000.

DICK COLMAN
Princeton Football Coach

College football records are filled with stories of players who rose and given a fine performance that contributed much to winning a cherished victory. Never in Princeton's long history in the sport, however, (and rarely in any other college) has a coach been given the extremely difficult assignment that Dick Colman accepted this fall and fulfilled so well.

The Princeton community is so well aware of the tragedy that unfolded during the season that any embellishment of the problems inherent in succeeding, the late Charlie Caldwell tends to become over-dramatic. Had the squad and the coaching staff not come through to win the Ivy title under the circumstances, it would have been wholly understandable. The fact that they did, under the most difficult of conditions, made the achievement much greater.

Colman's long acquaintance with his popular and highly-respected predecessor was, of course, working constantly to his advantage. Dick first played under Caldwell at Willona in 1934, and the pupil-teacher relationship hit the jackpot when Colman won All-American rating as a guard in his senior year.

Four seasons of serving as an assistant coach at the Massachusetts Institution were followed by a long war-time interruption, but when Caldwell came to Princeton in the spring of 1945, Colman was named line coach on his staff. This past fall, the hard core of teaching experience that Colman had gained in the past dozen years paid tremendous dividends; while wrestling with the myriad problems that confront a head coach, he still found time to rebuild almost from scratch a line that spelled the difference in many of the team's seven victories — particularly in the championship, snow-blown game with Dartmouth.

It was typical of the leadership that flows innately from Colman that he was head coach of the first team to defeat Dartmouth, following a loss to Yale. In 23 years, it was even more indicative of his belief in his players when he insisted that winning the Ivy title in view of that had never before was "not a tremendous coaching job, but a tremendous team effort."

Same Teams in 1958. The 1958 schedule sends Princeton against the same opponents it has met each fall since 1954. Games on the road will be played against Pennsylvania, Cornell and Yale (a trio that the Tigers prefer not to play away in the same season but must because of the intricate rotation schedule involving all eight Ivy teams.)

The schedule: September 27, Rutgers; October 4, Columbia; 11, Pennsylvania, away; 18, Colgate; 25, Cornell, away; November 1, Brown; 8, Harvard; 15, Yale, away; 22, Dartmouth.

PHS OPTIMISTIC

Figures to Win Opener. Coach Tony Borzok believes that a change in scenery and the memory of last year's two-point loss are all his holdover-loaded Princeton High basketball variety needs to knock over Neptune High. If he's right, and he expressed his belief following a good workout early this week, then the Little Tigers will be off to a good start, for they open their 1957-58 season against the Scarlet Flyers at 3:20 p.m. next Tuesday in the PHS gym.

The Flyers give Princeton a tough time almost every time the two clubs meet, especially when the game is played in the shore town. But Borzok fortunately doesn't have an away-from-home opener to bother him this year. What's more, he's got a 12-senior squad that boasts nine lettermen who recall quite vividly the thrills that Neptune captured in the closing seconds a year ago. These veterans, Borzok figures, represent enough polish to eliminate the taint of that defeat—one to a 9-10 campaign.

Per custom, PHS is rushing so quickly from football into basketball that the court coach is sure he won't have ample time to mould a smooth-functioning combination by the day Neptune arrives here. However, he is much better off experience-wise than he has been in four previous falls at PHS and, unless the Scarlet Flyers show up with an unusually strong squad, his experience should give Princeton an advantage over the first of its four pre-Christmas rivals.

The fact that nine letter-winners are on hand is creating quite a stir at the high school. Competition for starting positions is red-hot and Borzok promises he will not know his opening quintet until about 3:15 next Tuesday afternoon. That is, he will not be certain of the entire makeup of the starting five.

Ammerman Key Figure. Captain Steve Hogarty and forwards Alan Ammerman and George Watson are assured of spots on PHS' starting team after only five practice sessions. The battle royal is being waged for the two guard spots, with any pair from the rest of the varsity liable to rate Borzok's nod. Byge Chubb and Joe Chibbaro, short but speedy holdovers who can control the ball well, are current favorites, but several others bear watching and Borzok may sacrifice some speed for a little more height.

Actually, this year's club may be the shortest in Borzok's tenure at PHS. Centers George Larsen and Bill Gallant, at 6-4 and 6-5 respectively, belie this statement, yet, they must demonstrate marked improvement before they can be considered front-line material. At present, Hogarty, 6-3, is the tallest member of the tentative starting lineup, with Ammerman.

 at 6-1 and Wilson just hitting 6-even. Chase and Chibbaro are way under the 6-foot mark.

Ammerman, who led the Little Tigers in scoring last season with 23.5 points per outing, is the team's key figure. If he can maintain the pace and permit his colleagues to break loose, his opponents are concentrating on him, then PH's hurry-up boys may catch the taller clubs napping. Ammerman averaged 19.7 as the junior varsity leader two years ago and improved a great deal when he hit the varsity ranks. He could break Marvinia Trostman's all-time scoring average of 28.6 by adding five points to his average this campaign, but chances are he will be obliged to forget this pinnacle in favor of more teamwork. Hogarty is capable of constituting a real scoring threat, if he can gain confidence and learn to hold on to the ball, and Wilson is counted on heavily for his defensive ability, particularly in the ball-stealing and off-the-boards departments. Untested skill is a good possibility among other members of the varsity, and for this reason Borzok is keeping an eye on Tony Boccanfuso, 19-year-old last year, and Doug (Motorcycle) Hayes, up from the junior varsity and looking very fast and challenging to date.

HUN FIVE PRACTICING
 New Coach, New Hope. Anxious to forget last year's miserable 2-13 record, Hun School's "building for the future" basketball team began serious practice sessions this week, for the "future" has arrived. This is "the year" for the Red & Black's eight returning lettermen, commencing with their cage opener against Bryn Athyn at 4 p.m. next Tuesday in the Seminary gym.

The Johnny Hun's new coach, George Selleck, a student at the Seminary, refused to name names this week, pointing out with good reason that he will be lucky to know one player from another by the first game whistle. A three-year varsity performer at Stanford, where he served as captain in his senior season and was voted an All-American guard, Selleck didn't get his first look at the Hun candidates until Monday afternoon, eight days before the start of a 15-game campaign.

Following his first fleeting glimpses, Selleck, who should inspire the boys to good court deeds, predicted a speedy team that "will play exciting, if not victorious basketball." He based this early prognostication on his own decision to employ a full-scale press right off the bat.

The veteran returnees on the Red & Black roster include Captain Chuck Barren, George Cramer of Princeton, Lew Rosenthal and Bruce Barren, guard hopefuls, Pete Foote at center and Dave Phares, John Green and Tom Horwich, forwards. Among the newcomers, Cal Stanny, a 6-foot 2-

Forecasts Riled at 738
 Picking all six of the final games involving Ivy League teams correctly, Towns' Sports Department finished the season with a record of 32 right, 11 wrong and one tie. The average for the season was 738.

Two rocking upsets marked the 1957 campaign, each involving one of the teams whose course was most difficult to predict. Brown's defeat by Columbia in the first game of the season was a distinct surprise, and the Lions went on to underscore this by losing every one of their remaining eight games. Penn dropped six in a row and then bounced up with an astounding 33-20 defeat of Yale. Towns' Sports missed these two, but did call accurately Brown's conquest of the Elis right after the Bruins had lost to Columbia.

Inch pivotman with high school experience, carries notable credentials, while Tommy Petrone of Princeton, star of Witherspoon School's team last winter, appears to be Hun's No. 1 freshman prospect.

"IT WAS A NICE TRY, BUT..." seems to sum up public opinion about competitive cars attempting to equal the styling and features of the Swept-Wing 58. They tried to get as low, but had to lower the roof to do it. (Less headroom, same high, boxy, cramped look.) Their windshields got smaller, while ours got bigger. Most of them still don't have Total-Contact Brakes to assure smooth, even, safe stops when needed. Nor do they offer push-button TorqueFlite, the proven automatic transmission, and Constant-Control power steering that works full time - not part time as some other systems do. And Dodge no-way, no-dip Torsion-Aire is standard equipment. (Buck-type air springs offered by some cars cost well over $100.00 extra.) So compare all the 1958 models with Dodge. We think you'll agree: Other cars are catching on, but they can't catch up.

a laudable 653 series, by series effort among loop keepers so far this season, also in the Major, steady Joe Baldwin fired, a 400 series with games of 219, 207 and 175, followed by these Major-donors: Walter Brown, 210-207, Jack Stout, 205, Al Dempster, 202, Tony Amalfitano, 201, and Bill Dumbauld, 200. Mike Kopliner, 191-201-172 (592 series) in the Tri-County Firemen's League was the only other standout series, while these competitors contributed high single games: Bip Davison, 231, Lar Golden, 227, Jack Lucy, 222, Hal Frazee, 222, Baldwin, 206, and Maurice Gledhill, 202, in the Princeton "B" loop, Al Ceraso, 214, Mike Schwelck, 205, and Brown 203, in the Industrial circuit and Eucly Cupples, 201, and Davison, 200, behind Kopliner among the firefighters.

In the team department, Frazee's Market recorded a three-game high of 2857 (853-939-1061) to stay atop the Major League with 48 wins, just ahead of Decker's Dairy (42) and Kase Kleenars (40). The National Guardsmen (58) won their weekly match, 2 to 1, thereby lengthening their "B" loop margin over Mast Electric (48) and Cifelli Electric (44), which crossed wires by dropping two games each in their matches. Glenmorr (52) retained its lead over Nassau Del (46) and Dayton (42) in the Industrial loop and, in the Tri-County Firemen's League, Princeton No. 1 (45) copied two games to hold its edge over Blawhurg (42) and Kingston (40).

The Princeton Women's Bowling League developed into a real donnybrook as Town Topics and Dayton V, tied for third place a week ago, forged into a three-way top sport deadlock with Betty Wright Shop (63 wins apiece), leaving Cranbury Pharmacy (62) right behind in the runner-up slot. Betty Harris paced the FBWL bowlers with a 194 game, followed by Sara Rose, 178-165, Betty Cooper, 175-165, Marge Bloom, 171, Doris Curran and Scotty Wheeler 170, and Helen Scott, 167, no such closeness prevailed in the Women's Industrial League, what with the 5 Jills (73) sweeping their match to grab a substantial lead over Decker's (64) and the Cranbury Jins (61), high scores included Julia Marsellino's 191, Joan Anninworth's 185-166, Gladys Sanders' 180, Marilyn Silverster's 172-163 and Eleanor Nassau's 166.

DEER SEASON TO OPEN
Wardens List Restrictions.
Hunting enthusiasts will enter the woodlands en masse Monday when the annual six-day deer season opens. Until 5 p.m. Saturday, December 14, followers of the sport will be able to use firearms.

Although bow and arrow excursions lagged a record number of specimens during their exclusive season, the State Division of Fish and Game is predicting a banner week for the firearm hunter. Camping facilities throughout the state have been spruced up in preparation for the abbreviated period.

The Division reminds all hunters that their pursuits will be limited to the daylight hours of 7 a.m. through 5 p.m. No rifle or firearm of any kind with a smaller caliber than 12-gauge will be permitted and only buckshot may be used.

Hunters are also warned that dogs may not be employed to track down deer. Only animals with antlers exceeding three inches may be shot.

Although firearms will be in general use, licensed archers may also take part in the hunt. Each hunter may take one antlered deer and is required to report his catch to the Division of Fish and Game in Trenton or any game warden within 48 hours.

Pastimes has a bear that gets wound up enough to pour Pepsi Cola from bottle to cup and drink it all down, over and over again. A nice crank box, $2.95, brings some price relief. (Thorn's has a baby music box for 98 cents.).

Musical pillows at Pastimes are shaped like dog, clown, baby, or purple cow. Two Swiss peasant dancers move in and out of a pair of doors while music plays giddily away.

Urken's has an electronic bell organ, $12.95, battery operated, one octave. Kathedral chimes and a Kampanile tower of bells perform on precision-tuned pipes.

Tiger has "Think" for $2.95 (at least the price tag is spelled correctly) and Around the World in 80 Days. Allen's has games in quantity for the first time this year. Standby like Lincoln Logs, Parchesi, Monopoly and so on. Radio Center offers little portable chess and checkers sets, 36 cents.

Sporting goods are big this year at Pastimes, where there is a large stock of the real thing not just a bunch of boys. You'll find football helmets, baseball Mitts, shoulder pads, pants boxing gloves, and balls to match. Ice-skates, too, both the shoe-skate and the beginner's.

Tiger, of course, is a sporting goods house for every older boy, and there are shoe-skates here, too. The skates we like best are the two-runner ones for customers at Staff 'N Nonense. They have 14-karat gold plated runners.

Sue: "I know we seem to be paying Public Service more each month, but we use electricity and gas in more ways than ever before. We have more appliances and thus more comforts."

Welcome, "Pacifist" Or Not

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The Princeton branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom would like to thank you for your cooperation in publicizing our activities. However, we would like to correct a mistaken impression which may have been left in the minds of your readers two weeks ago.

You mentioned that the Prayer and Conscience Vigil now being held in Washington, D.C. is being conducted by the W.I.L.P.F. and "several other pacifist organizations." We are a pacifist organization in the sense that our purpose is to work through education and non-violent action for the establishment throughout the world of those political, economic, social and psychological conditions which can assure peace and freedom.

Furthermore, we endorse those who for conscience's sake give public witness to their personal pacifism (e.g., conscientious objectors). However, we certainly do not require such a stand from our members and it is not by any means expected that one be a "pacifist" in order to find a welcome in the W.I.L.P.F. Membership is open to all those of any race or creed who feel that a world in which peace and freedom may prevail can be achieved by peaceful methods.

Santa requests, however, that boys and girls drop their letters in the mail box no later than Tuesday, December 17, so that his answers may be flown from his workshop to his distribution post office at the North Pole. From there, they will be relayed to Princeton.

All letters received after that date will be rushed direct to the Princeton Post Office by special jet plane from the North Pole. Santa regrets that no replies can be made after December 20.

No postage on letters deposited in the special mail box is necessary. Princeton Municipal Improvement, Inc. has arranged to collect the mail and fly it to Santa.

Far East Handwork. Princeton area residents will have an opportunity on Friday to purchase colorful handwork of the Far East at an "Indian Bazaar" sponsored by the Princeton Branch, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. It will be held between noon and 9 p.m. at the Farmhouse Sales and Service Store, Princeton Shopping Center.

News Of The CHURCHES

NEW LUTHERAN CHURCH
Griggstown Congregation. A new church, the Bunker Hill Lutheran Church, has been formed in Griggstown. On Sunday at 2:30 p.m. the congregation will hold an installation service for the new pastor, and an ordination service for new elders.

An affiliate of the Church of the Lutheran Brethren of America, the new congregation was organized officially on September 20, but a planning committee has been at work last spring and the congregation has a brand-new church in which to hold services. The church is located on Bunker Hill Road between Route 27 and Griggstown.

The committee that organized the congregation last spring included Peter Erickson, Thomas Rasmussen, in March of this year, they called to their new pastor the Rev. George Aase, then serving a Lutheran congregation in Madokso, North Dakota. They arrived in Griggstown to assume his new duties on July 21.

Services were held during the summer in the Pavilion at Norbeck and regular services began in the new church in September. There is a membership of 41 and a regular attendance of 60 to 80 persons, drawn from the Griggstown environs as far as 15 miles. The Sunday School averages about 50 children.

This Sunday's special service will feature the ordination of Peter Erickson, Thomas Olson and the Rev. Theodore Thomsen as elders. The Rev. Theodore Thomsen, vice-president of the Church of the Lutheran Brethren, will officiate assisted by the Rev. Rasmus Norheim, first vice-president of the church organization.

The Rev. Mr. Norheim is a noted singing evangelist and he will sing during the services and at the Evening Gospel Service at 7:30 p.m. The church expects that many persons who came for the ordination and installation will stay on for the evening singing which will include vocal duets, and instrumental solos by members of the Kristian Samuelsen family, well-known as church singers.

Refreshments will be served at the afternoon service and the public is invited to attend.

Youth Program Explored. How is the Presbyterian church helping its youth? MODERN TRADITIONAL for $58,500

Traditional in its two-story brick and frame exterior, with conventional rooms and walls dividing them, the house still has the air of a roomy, wide-open modern. Perhaps it's the good use of glass that allows the lovely outdoors to move in. Outstanding are the marvelous kitchen, with a playing-eating area, and fireplace, four big bedrooms, a fine light basement with the beginnings of a small bedroom and bath. The accents are spectacular, as is the setting. De a high acre in the Edgerstone area, the well-landscaped house overlooks a wooded bank that runs down to a pond. (No swimming, but think of the skating!)
